

'Under a dark sky' by Robby Bolleyn

Exhibitions / Amsterdam

26 October - 21 December, 1pm - 6pm (Wed - Sat)

A: Eduard Planting Gallery, Eerste
Bloemdwarsstraat 2
Amsterdam

T: +31 (0) 20 320 67 05

E: info@eduardplanting.com

W: <http://www.eduardplanting.com>

€:

Vind ik leuk Tweet 1 +1 \(0\)

For more than 15 years Belgian photographer Robby Bolleyn has travelled in Tanzania to capture the wildlife in his own special way.

"Under a dark sky" shows magical and graceful portraits of African animals.

"Under a dark sky" - Wildlife photography by Robby Bolleyn

The selection of limited edition prints is the result of a series of extensive safaris in Tanzania, Eastern Africa.

Robby Bolleyn wanted to portray the African animals as mysterious and elegant creatures, while capturing their wildness and savagery.

Searching for penetrating portraits, he wished to present the African animal kingdom in an unusual and authentic manner.

All images were taken in natural conditions, mainly within the Serengeti ecosystem. The animals were not to be viewed with a merely observant eye, but were to be examined with much more depth. Each image had to be a challenge, every single time.

About Robby Bolleyn

Born in Antwerp in 1966, Robby Bolleyn studied Photography and Marketing and started his career at the World Wide Fund for Nature, but decided to devote his life to full-time photography.