

A WORD FROM THE GALLERY MANAGER

We're delighted to welcome two new artists to Doinel Gallery this month – Robby Bolleyn and Zena Holloway. Robby's wild and wonderful photographs of majestic animals from the African Serengeti are sure to enthrall. Zena's bold, ethereal photos of figures suspended in water are already internet and publishing sensations in their own right.

Visit us at AAF Hampstead from 13-16 June to see those beautiful artworks.

Also in this month's newsletter, we look at Peter Arnold's diverse and impactful photographic art, and share our top tips for the latest and best fine art photography books and exhibitions.

Last but not least : our brand new website is now online. Please have a look at www.doinelgallery.com and don't hesitate to share your comments with us.

ROBBY BOLLEYN

Robby's selection of photos of African animals is the result of the artist's extensive travels through Tanzania and the Serengeti. Portraying the animal kingdom in an unusual, yet authentic, style, Robby's photographs balance a sense of grace and majesty with the animals' fundamental wildness.

Formerly an office manager at the World Wide Fund for Nature, Belgian artist Robby gave up the 9-5 to pursue full-time his passion for creating beautiful images of the world's most fascinating, and sometimes endangered, creatures.
